Town Council Met on Monday Of This Week

Shortest Meeting of Council For Some Time

Town Council met last Monday evening, and it was the shortest meeting for some time. It was over by about nine o'clock. Mayor Sangster and councillors Borcholts, Shaw, Kishadi Hope and Willis were present.

Messrs. Geo. Broughton, and N. Bell were present and made a request that a skating rink be built in the south end of town. The request was granted providing that certain rules made by the council would be strictly adhered to.

The School Board asked for $2,400 for the usual expenses. The amount was passed by council.

Mr. Robinson M. L. A. made a request for relief of certain citizens of town. The matter was left over for further investigation. Accounts were submitted to the finance committee for payment and were passed by council.

Could Use Ronaiane If No Rehabilitation

Both Governments Have Been Strongly Criticized

Great interest has been aroused in this district by the reports that the Redcliff-Ronaiane irrigation scheme may be settled by Jewish refugees. According to informed parties, the scheme, still in the first stages, will settle two thousand Jewish families on the land and the improvements and new works necessary will be financed by money raised privately in Canada. The refugees will also be supported until such time as the land is in condition. There is to be no cost to the governments whatsoever.

Local business men have hoped for some time that the scheme would be completed as a rehabilitation number and the apathy of the Federal and Provincial governments has been strongly criticized. If the original scheme of rehabilitation is not to be considered it is hoped that the federal government will give every consideration to the Jewish representations.

Additional Air Service Starts Today

Fast Air Mail Service To
Toronto and Montreal

Official information has just come to the local post office that starting Dec. 1st additional air mail service will be inaugurated from Winnipeg to Montreal which will speed up mail going from here to Toronto and points east. Letters posted at the Redcliff office any time during the day, will arrive in Toronto 11 1/2 hours after leaving Lethbridge air port or say a letter mailed in Redcliff at ten minutes to eleven or any time in the morning before that time will arrive in Toronto the next day at 1.30 Toronto time or just a few minutes over 24 hours, this brings the city of Toronto in almost as close a mailing distance as our own city of Calgary, and just as soon as the Calgary air port is in readiness even less time will be taken. Mail posted in Redcliff at same time as mail for Toronto, and addressed to Vancouver would reach Vancouver at 5.30 and be ready for delivery the first thing in the morning which is a wonderful service for the first or second or for each additional one.

The two Mondays immediately following Christmas and New Year's Day, Dec. 26 and Jan. 3 next, will be legal holidays in all the provinces of Canada, according to statute.

SCHOOL NEWS

On November 18th the Literary festing opened with the reading of the minutes, each committee brought in announcements on the Christmas party. Some of the grade eights and nines then favored the Lit with a song. The final spelling match between Literary members was concluded. The Grades' class, and winners proved to be the best team.

The president then asked to adjourn the meeting but the members objected because the school paper had not been read. After hearing the paper the meeting adjourned.

On November 25th Cyril Wolfe favored the society with a violin solo after the business meeting was over. Then the spelling match from the lower rooms began. In grade two Teddy Buleand came first with a total of six. In grade three Wilma Marty led with nine points out of a possible ten. Colleen McKay came first in her division. Howard Waters from grade six tied with Wilma for the highest marks of the day.

Local Chamber of Commerce Met Tuesday

Several Matters Were up For Interesting Discussion

At a meeting held Tuesday night in the Town Hall the Redcliff Chamber of Commerce arranged to reorganize for the coming year. Election of officers will be held early in January.

A committee consisting of Dr. Lewis, Mr. Mellor and Mr. Hall was appointed to inquire into the feasibility of bringing electricity to Redcliff. Redcliff is one of the few towns of its size in Alberta without electric power.

The question of a committee hall was also discussed and a committee appointed to work in conjunction with the factory social club in an effort to bring this about.

The Redcliff-Ronaiane Irrigation scheme is still the main interest of the Chamber. Reports that this area is under consideration for the settlement of Jewish refugees may cause some action to be taken by the government to open the tract up.

Mr. J. Foreley, of the Blindness District, north of here, is still on the U. F. A. Committee.

Report is to the effect that Germany is mobilizing three army corps for armed action against Poland and Hungary.

At the present time there is a slight improvement in prices of horses in Alberta as well as all districts in Canada.

Alberta Livestock Board's profits for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1938 netted $2,632,750. The dry belt is evidently becoming more extensive. Another argument for irrigation.

In the nomination of officers Mr. B. Allison was the only one nominated as President. Mr. W. Hill would not accept nomination as he has been president for two years.

Nominations for Vice President were W. Yates, J. Podest, and J. Hitchen.

Nominated for the Executive were W. Palneau, E. L. Stone, G. Mignault, N. Willis and G. Ordway. The two who are not elected as vice president will be automatically on the Executive Committee.

The election of the several officers nominated will be held early in the month of December.

Tryte was a fair attendance of members at the meeting.

Alberta Young Farmers Won at Chicago

F. and W. J. Rigby of Wembley
Are 22 and 23 Years Old

Two young brothers from Wembley, Alberta, are recognized as world's champion growers of wheat and oats, crowned "kings" at the International Grain and Hay Show in Chicago.

Francis Lloyd Rigby, 23, won the coveted wheat championship with a sample of Reward to mark the seventh consecutive year the variety developed by the Canadian Government Experimental Farms at Ottawa in 1934 had won here. It was the 24th Canadian Victory in 28 years of the competition.

His 22-year-old brother W. J. Rigby, won for Canada its 11th title championship since 1920, 10 of them taken by Albertans.

Many citizens of several sections of this province are making arrangements to hold meetings for the purpose of discussing the reduction of a number of members of the legislature. They are of the opinion that we do not need so many members as we now have.

Scheme to Get Irrigation Here For Unfortunates

Jewish Leaders Offer 3 Million
Dollars For Project

Efforts are being made to bring two thousand families of Jews from Germany to settle on a colonization farming scheme in the Ronaiane-Redcliff area. Harry Weiner, prominent Jewish property holder here, and big scale farmer of Dwyer, Saskatchewan would not divulge further information, saying the question was in its infancy and sanction from the Dominion Government to allow entry of the refugees must first be given.

Whether or not a Jewish syndicate was backing the scheme Mr. Weiner would not comment.

The land under question comprising approximately 250,000 acres is an area advocated in a big irrigation scheme recommended to the government by the Medicine Hat and Redcliff branches of the Chamber of Commerce and Medicine Hat city council. The scheme has been voted as feasible by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture government engineers and P. F. E. A. officials. Submissions by the chambers have separately urged sanction on the work to the governments in order to rehabilitate farmers from the drought areas of the province. The cost of the irrigation scheme is estimated at $3,000,000.

Mr. Weiner stated this sum could be raised by Jewish people in the Dominion. The two thousand families, meaning approximately ten thousand persons, could be settled permanently as farmers on a 50 or 60-acre plot scheme to each family, he said.

After enjoying the most successful season since it was opened in 1923, Japer Park Lodge has closed its doors for another year. Since the 1938 season opened on June 15th, guest registration was heavy, and during July and August and the first ten days of September, the lodge operated almost to capacity. Every feature of the lodge operations showed an increase over last season.

Agricultural Salvation

A few years ago a good deal was printed and heard in this country about the Danish co-operative movement and the system of rural education as practiced in that little European country, the close ties which exist between Danish rural education and co-operation and the profound effect which this combination has exerted on the economic and cultural life of the people of Denmark and particularly of the residents of the agricultural areas.

Much interest was evinced in the results of the tie-up between education and co-operation in Denmark that governmental authorities in this country a few years ago secured a great deal of data on the subject and this information was widely disseminated throughout the prairie provinces. In the course of a year or two farmers and others in this country became well posted on what has been and is being done in Denmark and the results on the welfare of the people of that country.

Generally speaking the information secured by the people of this country was favorably received by the farming community of Western Canada and while it was generally recognized the Danish systems of rural education and co-operative marketing of agricultural products could not be adopted in this country many who felt that some of the features of both could be made adaptable here, not only to the economic benefit of the agriculturist but also to the promotion of a better cultural life.

During the era of the great depression of the past eight or nine years the interest which had been aroused in this country in the two movements which have contributed so much to the material welfare and happiness of the Danish rural people appears to have dropped out of sight and that is to be regretted for there is much of value there which would advantage might be taken in shaping the future course of the rural life of these prairies.

Undoubtedly the least of interest can properly be attributed to the struggle which the farmers have had to wage during the past few years for their very existence. Agriculturists have had to wage warfare against a series of disasters of great magnitude, including drought, dust, rust and grasshoppers, forcing them to give unwieldy attention to intimate details of problems and leaving them little opportunity or energy to prosecute researches further afield.

Should Consider Possibilities

With it, it is to be hoped, a return to more nearly normal yields in 1930, the present might be an appropriate time to take stock of present day trends in Western Canadian agricultural industry in the hope of determining the course which should be shaped to ensure future development along sound and profitable lines.

It is to be expected that much thought will be given to this subject in the next year or two and while the problems of the present and future are under review some earnest consideration might well be given to the question of the application here of some of the Danish agricultural marketing policies and the Danish rural educational system which lies behind their co-operative system.

As pointed out in a recent article by A. Assen Drejer, Secretary to the Central Co-operative Committee of Denmark the co-operative movement occupies a prominent place in the world's general knowledge of Denmark and, as he further pointed out, the enormous growth in the production and marketing section of the movement in that country is directly connected with the reorganization of farm production in the last quarter of the nineteenth century, when conditions made it necessary for the farmers of Denmark to turn their attention from cereal growing as the main basis of their industry to animal husbandry.

There is plenty of evidence to demonstrate that the agricultural and folk schools played a very important part in enabling the Danish farmers to face and successfully combat the debacle which threatened to overwhelm their industry and, what is of equal if not greater importance is the fact that these schools have made a tremendous contribution to the cultural welfare and happiness of the rural population of Denmark.

During the past thirty years about one-third of the agricultural youth of about 1,400,000 people is not difficult to understand the profound influence these institutions have had and are having on the life of the people of the country district.

Suzanne Wilkes, pretty blond wife of the explorer, Sir Hubert Wilkes, will accompany him on his attempt to reach the North Pole by submarine, she said, following her arrival at Los Angeles from Australia.

"I'm just here to fatten up for the trip," she said. "We are to leave New York next March. Sir Hubert is directing the installation of equipment on a submarine designed especially to navigate under the Arctic ice floes."

Heat Drives New Engine

Only Element Needed is Chain of English Inventor
In a garden shed in the little Buckinghamshire village of Land, there an engine that "runs on nothing" has been invented.

For 20 years the inventor, Alfred Cary, has been working in a lean-to shed attached to his tiny bungalow in the Chiltern Hills, perfecting this machine.

As a young man he watched workmen building an iron fence between his house and the neighboring property. During the following summer, he saw one of the walls collapse before the irresistible pressure of the expanding metal.

The power of the expanding iron impressed him. He pondered over it for many days.

"If one could get several different metals all expanding and contracting to work one against the other a terrific power could be created," he told himself. "Couldn't that be used in some way?"

In the small gloomy shed amongst his fruit and winter onions, the inventor saw the answer to this question.

The machine is no bigger than a typewriter, consists of a rotary cylinder, with three pistons, one inside the other, and two flywheels one on each side of the cylinder. The pistons are about three feet high, with a little door at the base.

"There are metals inside and there are pistons, and the adjustments of parts there," Cary said. "I've been compelled to work so little as a few inches of an inch."

He lit a low-blow lamp and put the flame inside the door. About four minutes later he swung one of the flywheels and the pistons began to move slowly. As the engine gained speed he took the lamp away.

The tiny engine kept on running with no sound of explosion, no steam, and no smoke.

"Heat circulates at the bottom and cold water at the top," he explained. "Between the heat and the cold are metals, expanding and contracting. That's the principle. The use of it is my secret."

Asked how long the engine would run if he left it running for as long as four days. I warmed it up on a Saturday morning and without being heated again it ran until the following Tuesday.

Seeks Tax Exemption

C.B.C. Advances Claim That It Is an Adjunct of the Crown
The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in an announcement made in Toronto before Judge James Parker advanced the claim it is exempt from taxation on the ground it is an adjunct of the crown. Judge Parker reserved decision.

For some time past the corporation of Toronto said only actual crown lands, not separately incorporated bodies such as the C.B.C. were exempt from taxation. The Canadian National Railways and other publicly-created bodies have been exempt.

John Jennings, appearing for C.B.C., said the tax exemption claim would be advanced right across Canada.

Scheduled commercial flights across the Atlantic Ocean under the United States flag will begin next April, William H. Covadene, president, American Export Lines, Incorporated, announced.

Following experimental flight carrying express mail, the company, through its wholly owned subsidiary, American Export Airline, Incorporated, plans to invest an additional $4,000,000 to $7,000,000 to build a new liner.

Earliest Inhabitant

Evidence Of First Man On North American Continent Found In Saskatchewan
Dr. Frank H. Roberts, archaeologist of the Smithsonian Institute, declared today that the earliest inhabitant of North America, earliest known inhabitant of the continent, was a Paleo-Indian, who lived in the area of the Saskatchewan River.

Reporting on explorations during the past summer, Dr. Roberts said he found stone implements and arrow heads in Saskatchewan which showed work characteristic of that known to have been done by the Paleo-Indian.

The Paleo-Indian lived in North America as early as 10,000 years ago, according to his findings.

Dr. Roberts traced the Paleo-Indian man, as far as he could, to the Colorado River, and he has received a grant to explore the area from Colorado to the Atlantic seaboard.

Flinding of the arrow and spear run in Saskatchewan, particularly interesting, Dr. Roberts said, because they confirmed the belief the Paleo-Indian, who lived in North America long before the Indians, was a typical Indian.

Explorations just carried out show the Paleo-Indian man lived in the area of the hairy mammoth, the North American camel and an extinct bison.

Dr. Roberts said the Paleo-Indian man's stone implements were always discovered in close association with bones of the mammoth and other animals in the same geological strata.

A Word For The Scot

Writer Pleads Scotland As A Fine Country In Which To Live
Not everybody in Scotland esteems the bridle which was put on the kilt. Porridge may be eaten, whisky may be drunk, and the kilt may be worn and worn, but there are other things.

Winter is not unduly cold in Scotland. In point of fact, over the greater part of Scotland winter temperatures are higher than they are in London. Except on high ground, snow and frost are rare and of brief duration. Palm trees flourish in the open air. The mean winter temperature in the Orkney Islands, to the north of the Scottish mainland, is about the same as that of Falmouth, in the south of England.

Scotland is not all mountains. The Highlands are only a part of the country. The Lowlands, too, are beautiful, and they excel in historical and romantic associations.

The Scots are not mean. They refrain from foolish extravagance, but their charities are magnificently endowed and generously maintained.

Larger School Units

Movement Is Being Carried On Vigorously In Alberta
Reports from the Department of Education at Edmonton indicate that the movement to establish large units for school administration is being carried on vigorously. Blocks of from 80 to 100 small districts are being united to form one large administrative area.

Some 34 large units have been formed. The movement is being carried on in the province by the big unit plan, largely to save money.

The movement will be increased and that local home rule will be eliminated. Proponents of the new system assert that rural education in its present setting is a standard and that further progress is impossible until the small administrative unit disappears.

Two generations ago education was the parents' responsibility. After long struggle the community assumed the costs of the education of all children within its borders. Today it is being argued that equal and adequate educational facilities can be provided only by enlarging the administrative areas to include great numbers of communities—Calgary Alberta.

Another Story For Ripley

Hunter Claims He Bagged Ducks In "Normal Way"
Here's the story that is being told—Take it or leave it. A well-known young hunter of Glendon, Ontario, went out hunting ducks and came to a field where there was a good sized flock of them. However, the ducks were settled in an open field and covering by which the hunter could get close enough for a shot.

The way that he reported to strategy and his knowledge of wild life. Knowing the ducks unfazed by cattle, he corralled two calves in the field, some distance away from the birds, and placing an arm about the neck of each, led them close to the ducks. This bird he was able to get with in close range of the game and he arrived back in Glendon with three ducks.

Not Exactly True

All Pioneers Not Hardy Race They Are Pictured
There is a legend that the pioneers were a hale and hardy race, living to a good old age, and successfully raising families of a dozen or more. Apparently that wasn't true, as shown by the deaths commemorated in a booklet covering the period of 20 years from 1865 to 1885. The inscriptions cover 15 pages and 75 deaths. In two cases, the exact age is not mentioned, but the victims were little children. Apparently they were under 10.

The Royal Deaths listed, 62 died under the age of 30 years, or more than two-thirds of the total. Twelve were 10 years of age or under, and 10 were 11 to 15 years of age. Only 11 of the 75 died between the ages of 30 and 60. It appeared that those who lived to the age of 60 or more, had a good chance of reaching a fair age, though only five reached the "allotted span" of 70 years.

Planning Reserve Force

Men To Be Trained By Royal Canadian Mounted Police
The Royal Canadian Mounted Police plans to train a number of reserve men from among the staffs of large firms in several cities, it was announced at Ottawa by Deputy Commissioner Thomas Dunn.

The reserves will not be trained at Regina or Ottawa, where the force already has a large number of trained men available.

One city where the scheme will be tried is Winnipeg, where the force has a number of men chosen from large companies will be drilled, the usual strict R.C.M.P. entrance requirements in regard to physical condition, weight and height will not be rigidly enforced.

The men, when trained, will constitute a reserve supply for any emergency the force may be called upon to face.

Like To Obey

Women in New England Prefer to Be Ruled by Men
The results of a test show that 99 per cent. of all American women object to the word "obey" in the marriage ceremony. But this is not the case in Utah, Puritan old New England, where the condition is reversed, and the usual strict R.C.M.P. entrance requirements in regard to physical condition, weight and height will not be rigidly enforced.

The men, when trained, will constitute a reserve supply for any emergency the force may be called upon to face.

Seems Good Record

Dr. P. D. Foss is right when he suggests that $2,500,000,000 in Canada's chartered banks belonging to 4,000,000 depositors is a good record for a nation with something less than 12,000,000 people. It is, moreover, a sign that the financial troubles of a great many people exist only in imagination.

Single women under 30 years old, who wish to work in office and certain trades in Germany, are with a few exceptions required to work a year first at domestic service.

Eastern Workmen and their Families Eat over $20,000,000 worth of Western Meats and Butter

THE Eastern industrial worker likes Western food and he buys plenty of it — when he's working.

For instance, take an item like meat. Eastern sales alone brought the West nearly $20,000,000 in 1936. Sale of 10,000 tons of butter brought in nearly $5,000,000 more, while grain products, poultry and eggs mean another $15,000,000 in Western pockets.

That's why it's so vital to the West to keep the Eastern worker happy. And one way you help do it is by the purchase of a Canadian-built car for an active Automotive industry keeps many other industries humming — and all their workers and their families must be fed.

Of course, your money goes East — but it comes back to you in no uncertain fashion: in the purchases of your best customer, the industrial East, that aggregate over $40,000,000 a year.

For statistical and further information about this industry, write to Automotive Industries, 1006 Lumsden Building, Toronto.

Many Will Agree

That Indifference Regarding Of Food Is Often Discussed In

In dealth there's a post once expressed the universal sentiment of civilized mankind about poverty, saying:

"Parley, parley everywhere: 'Hush! I like my victuals.' One wishes at times that the same writer would deal with the tomato problem. Not that the tomato itself is deserving of any special opprobrium. On the contrary, in its proper place, it merits praise. If a person is in a mood for eating tomatoes or drinking tomato juice or improving the flavor of meat or fish with catsup, he feels kindly toward the fruit and the hardworking grower and canner that send it to our tables. For the expression of delicate opinions at political meetings, the tomato is excelled only by the egg, and one school of thought even goes so far as to regard the tomato as the most vegetable as producing the most spectacular form of criticism.

The problem arises from the unexpected, the uninvited, the unwelcome, degraded coat or some writer of household hints for women's magazines has apparently done his best to show the tomato can be used in combination with any other food. At hotel or restaurant, no matter what the price, it arrives garnished with tomato sauce or tomato supported by a discouraged leaf of lettuce. Even breakfast bacon and eggs are served with this unappetizing combination slithering at the plate's edge.

Compared with the tomato, parley is only a minor problem. One can throw it on the fire, or one can use it in the way of artificial flowers, or even leave it on the side of one's plate, as it does not infuse itself into the main dish. But the tomato, left on the plate, gradually creeps into the food, and it is almost equally objectionable on the tablecloth or the floor.

Though drastic action on the tomato is urged by some, the "Printed Word" does not advocate the passage of a law. There are too many laws already. Moral precepts are on the books, but the tomato should accomplish much. If every dish containing an uninvited slice of tomato were sent back to the kitchen, only a short campaign would be necessary. Barely a few days of inconvenience will not be too much if great and lasting reform can thus be achieved—Printed Word, Toronto.

Way The World Works

Democratic Countries Cannot Prosper Unless Other Nations Do

In Toronto recently Mr. Edward Healy said something that few would be said. And said often, he spoke of his desire to see the world free and Italy prosperous. Thus:

"I happen to be one of those who, desiring of the prosperity of the world, sincerely hope that Russia will prosper.

"Incidentally, I don't think that you will restrain your hopes. I am just as eager for the success and progress of Germany and Italy. My own philosophy is that the world is a dictatorship of any kind, but I know that the surest way to peace and happiness is to let the world progress in all great countries."

Good plain common sense. There are those who seem to feel that because Russia, Germany and Italy have a philosophy of government different from our own it would be a good thing if they didn't prosper. Which is foolish. No matter what government, organization these nations undertake—and it is their business—any of the democratic countries must live in the world with them and have commerce with them. If they gag in prosperity, we, almost of necessity, gain in prosperity. Too. If they be not prosperous, we inevitably will be less prosperous. Too. That, for good or for ill, is the way this world works.

Not is it a matter merely of prosperity. It is also a matter of peace. The people who disturb the peace are not the prosperous peoples. What causes political and social unrest is economic unrest. Poverty—Ottawa Journal.

The Way To Success

To find what one can grow and grow it; what one can sell and sell it; what one can buy, and do without that way lies the thrift pennywise. It is possible, of course, to be pennywise and pound foolish. Self denial can be carried further than is wise, but the common tendency is to stop short of expending its possibilities.

"Now, Tommy," said the geography teacher, "how do you know the world is round and hangs on nothing to the air? How do you prove it?"

"I don't have a compass," replied Tommy. "I never said it was."

Warplane Production

British Building More Than 500 Planes A Month

Already well ahead of its scheduled warplane production programme, the British government was reported as considering a plan to double the gap for the three years period beginning with the fiscal year 1939-40.

The plan under consideration, it was understood, would involve doubling a 1900,000,000 (£14,000,000,000) loan to supplement the five-year rearmament programme of £1,000,000,000 announced in February, 1937.

Britain has embarked on the biggest defence project in its history. If beginning next year it doubles the 400,000,000 annually it originally planned to spend, observers generally agreed most of the supplementary sum will go toward further building up the royal air force.

Experts were looking to consider the quality of planes now being turned out perfectly satisfactory. What they demand is greater mass production.

The February, 1937, programme called for 1,750 first-line fighting planes by March, 1938, and 2,750 by the end of that year. The former figure is understood to have been reached nearly five months ahead of schedule, due largely to the burst of speed occasioned by the Czechoslovak crisis. It is expected that the latter figure will be attained by mid-year.

Although official figures have never been made public, it has been reported that for each first-line plane Britain has made, and in some cases more, fighting aircraft in reserve. More than 300 planes a month are being built, and with this rate due to be kept up considerably in the near future, the air ministry is believed to have 450,000 first-line machines as its mid-1940 goal.

Lineage Un disputed

Only Existing Robin Hood Name Lives In Poland

Only existing "Robin Hood" of the unbroken lineage of legends, the last resort region of the High Tatra ranges of the Carpathians, just south of Krakow. They are called Gorski, Thracians, mountaineers, according to Crawford, Gluchowski, educational director, Glynia America, Inc., descendants of a robber chieftain of the middle ages called Janosik, and they carry only into families that come substantively trace back to that illustrious ancestor.

"They are a tall, erect, long-limbed, blue-looking men and ruggedly rugged, and their naturally energetic physique and attractive faces are displayed to advantage in costumes that are about the most picturesque ever devised.

The men wear white wool trousers, a long blue bag, like those of Napoleon's cavaliers. Their coats are capeline garments of white sheepskin, worn flung back with dangling, empty sleeves. The Gorski male headgear is a black hat shaped somewhat like a trench bucket with a wide, tall vertical feather, or (in the case of bachelors) with a bunch of flowers. The women, clad with a wide, metal-studded belt of leather, is elaborately embroidered, and rich design in bright colors ornament the lower front part of the trousers and the edges and sleeve ends of the coat. Gorski women have a costume of wide skirts, bodice and big-sleeved blouse as brilliantly decorated as the men. Both sexes wear their attractive outfit initially, and not just on festive days.

Anything But Dumb

Parrot Talked Fast Enough When He Heard Familiar Language

What good is a parrot that can talk? grieved attendees of the Forest Park zoo at Fort Worth, while they looked at their latest acquisition.

Forthwith they christened him "Dumb."

"Dumb" the bird remained for more than a month. . . . One early morning night, Watchman McIntyre, who had been carrying the parrot around on his shoulder for company, switched on the radio at the zoo office.

At that time of the morning it's a pretty safe bet you'll get no American stations but you will get plenty of Mexican ones.

"Tease el placer de felicitar . . ." began the announcer at the end of a phonograph record.

"Carrañal! Carrañal! etc., etc., began the "mule" parrot.

The secret is out. The bird came from Brownsville, Texas, where Spanish is almost a universal language. To-day the parrot has a new name: He's Jose. Jose, they do talk . . . Spanish!

One of the longest canals in the world runs from Leningrad to the Chinese frontier, a distance of 4,000 miles.

A Good Advertisement

Farmers Should Have Name On Mail Box Or Gate

The Huron Examiner says the farmer has always wanted to abolish the middle man, and with some reason too. But he will never accomplish that happy end by hiding his light under a bushel. Painting his name plainly on his mail box or his farm gate might not abolish the middleman either, but it would, perhaps, be making a start.

Of course there are farms that no one would like to see their names painted on. Not even on the farthest back field fence (if there was one). But when considering what the farmer and farming have gone through during the past few years, there are not very many of that kind. The average farmer should be, and undoubtedly is, proud of his farm. He has a right to be, as well as a right to acknowledge that pride, at least to the extent of using a little paint on his mail box or on his farm gate, or both.

It wouldn't do him a bit of harm if it might do him a heap of good. And it wouldn't cost him anything, and it would please the public, which does not cost much sometimes either.

Quality Is Better

Canadian Hay Sent To England Closes Fifty Of Clover

Between 3,000 and 4,000 tons of Canadian hay have been arriving at Liverpool weekly this fall, according to the Department of Trade and Commerce. It is reported that this hay is of much better quality than usual, containing plenty of clover.

In the London and south-eastern areas about a fifth of the fodder crop was damaged by drought in the spring and late rains. Fifty of Canadian hay is available in this area; but in south-western England and Wales, where the crop has been better, normal, growers complain that they are having difficulty in securing shipping space from Canada.

SMUGGLING DAYS RECALLED

Photograph of Fish Street, in Goldhanger, a picturesque village on the Essex coast of England, where a number of cottages are threatened with demolition. Goldhanger was a noted center of smuggling in the old days, and some of the threatened cottages were once the home of smugglers.

Police Plan For West

To Be Used For Patrols Over Isolated Territories

The embryo air force of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, which is due to leave most of its flying along the Atlantic coast, will spread its wings over western Canada next year, according to present plans.

Deputy Commissioner Thomas Dunn said it was proposed to add another plane to the present fleet of five and to station the new plane, a Northern Norseman transport, in the Northwest Territories.

The five Mountie planes in the Maritimes have been engaged in reconnaissance along the coast, combating smuggling and the illicit liquor traffic and watching for vessels in distress.

The plane in the Northwest Territories will perform slightly different duties. At present, police officers in the west make considerable use of commercial planes flying regular routes over the vast network of "down north" airways, but with their own plane they will be able to move about more rapidly. The Mountie plane will be used for patrol over isolated "beats" for many nights, and to transport reinforcements rapidly to outlying posts in case of emergency.

Waltresses Were Lucky

Two pretty young waitresses in a Calgary, Ill., restaurant, backed $100 each after a tipping duel between two wealthy Texas oil operators. After eating meals costing less than one dollar each, one of the men offered to double any tip his friend laid. The bet opened at $50 and ended with $500 on the table.

Just Flashed Away

It has been the theory of some scientists that the earth's continents were much nearer to each other in past ages than they are now. South half normal, scholars complain that they are having difficulty in securing shipping space from Canada.

Fish are frozen at a temperature of 22 degrees below zero and stacked like cordwood until sold, at a plant of a North Carolina co-operative dairy.

HARVESTING IN THE SHEPHERD ISLANDS

The photograph shows a field of barley being cut at Burnham Farm, in the extreme south of the Shepherd Islands. The barley is drawn toward the mower by a hand rake, operated by a man riding on the left-hand side of the machine, and the stalks are then tied together and assembled in sheaves.

Mysterious Disease

Believe Mumps Being Swift Death To Eskimos In North

A mysterious disease which brought swift death to Eskimos of South Shetland Island, particularly in the district around Lake Harbour on Strathairn, has been diagnosed by government physicians as mumps.

Radio and mailed instructions for treatment of the disease are being sent by the department of resources to Hudson's Bay Company and Royal Canadian Mounted Police posts in an attempt to halt crude native treatment which, with low Eskimo resistance, caused 70 deaths in a population of 1,000 in five years.

For years the Northwest Territories branch of the department has been worried about mysterious deaths around Lake Harbour. Natives were afflicted with glandular trouble and before any Mountie, much less a doctor, could reach them they were dead.

Because descriptions by natives were meagre and often contradictory, doctors down in the States came to a variety of speculations about the disease. One suggestion was that it was phosgene poisoning from eating decomposed meat.

However, the fact most of the victims died under 20 years, and other information gathered recently, prompted government physicians to the conclusion most of the deaths were caused by mumps.

This year when the eastern Arctic patrol on the R.M.S. Neptunus stopped at Lake Harbour, 36 sailors were taken on board for Fort Ross on Prince Regent Sound, far to the north. Doctor St. John, who had been at Fort Ross the year before and found the hunting and fishing so good in the new territory, had been told that his relatives back home to follow their example.

The policy of the department is to encourage the natives to extend their activities farther north where the hunting and fishing is better and Major D. McDonald, commander of the eastern Arctic patrol, made provision for transportation of the migrants on board two of the children developed mumps.

Dr. K. F. Rogers was the medical officer to accompany the patrol. He is to examine the natives to extend their activities farther north where the hunting and fishing is better and Major D.
